Established 1879. Vol. XLI—No. 27

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JULY 5, 1919.

SMALL DOSES

Iowa is the tenth State to ratify the Suffrage amendment.

The nation-wide telegraphers' strike called June 11 was called off July. It was not a success.

The old red stamp was given a cordial welcome on its return. People are so glad to see it they hate to lick it.

Leroy Moye, another American citizen, was murdered in the Tampico oil fields of Mexico Tuesday night.

Lemuel Ely Quigg, former member of Congress and prominent in Republican politics in New York State for many years, died at his home in New York, July 2.

A lot of the American soldiers have asked permission to marry German girls and have been refused. An order prohibits fraternizing and matrimony is held to be a species of fraternizing.

Hogs at Chicago Tuesday reached the highest price ever known, $22 per hundred, having reached that point by jumps of 25 cents a day. Before the United States entered the war July hogs were $10.25.

Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, it was announced at American military headquarters, will succeed Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett in command of the "forces on the Rhine," the new title of the army of occupation based on Coblenz.

Our own Ham-Lewis is still having peacock feathers added to his already gorgeous plumage. King Albert of Belgium has bestowed the dignity of grand officers in the order of the crown upon him in appreciation of Senator Lewis' "devotion to the cause of Belgium."

A telegram received at Bowling Green, Ky., last night stated that the body of Ensign Roy Law Hobdy, who with three other companions lost their life in a seaplane last February off the Virginia coast, has been recovered. The dispatch came from the navy department at Norfolk, and stated that the identification was positive.

The State Textbook Commission, refusing Gov. Black's invitation to resign, has made another selection of school books as follows. Carnahan and Lyon's primers and arithmetics, Winston's readers, D. C. Heath & Co.'s physiologies, Sanborn's languages, MacMillan's geographies and histories divided between Sanborn and MacMillan.

The Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital now has patients under treatment from Kentucky, Illinois and Tennessee and in Kentucky from Christian, Trigg, Lyon, Hopkins, Muhlenberg and Caldwell counties. The good that Dr. E. S. Stuart has done Kentucky and adjoining States will live long after the kind-hearted benefactor has entered into a just reward.

President Wilson made a Fourth of July speech on board the George Washington yesterday and a novel feature of the Independence day exercises was the first use of the wireless telephone for transmitting a presidential speech. A transmitter was placed alongside the president so that as he addressed the American sailors and soldiers aboard the ship his words were heard on board all transports within a radius of 300 miles.

Students Serve Meals. The "co-eds" at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, have been running a successful cafeteria for the students since January. These Home Economics girls do the work in this unique college eating place. They learn how to prepare food in quantities; they receive pay for the serving hours; and they get credit as though they had done classroom work. About 100 students ate at the cafeteria each day during the first month of its existence. At the close of the school 250 were taking their meals at the cafeteria. Besides becoming popular, the venture has been a success financially.

Died While On a Visit. John T. West, aged 81 years, died at the home of Jas. D. Hill, from erysipelas, Wednesday. Mr. West's home was in Bowling Green and he was here on a visit to Mr. Hill and his son, Dr. N. S. West. The body was taken to Bowling Green for burial Thursday.

BRITISH DIRIGIBLE CROSSES ATLANTIC WITHOUT STOP

DUE TO ARRIVE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AT MINEOLA, LONG ISLAND

NEAR DESTINATION YESTERDAY

Making Good Progress and All Aboard Apparently in Good Health.

Mineola, N. Y., July 4.—With every thing in readiness to receive the giant dirigible R-34, officers of the royal air force, the United States Navy units and army fliers are constantly on the alert to maintain a perfection of organization that will ensure the landing of the great gas bag without mishap today, as it approaches on its trans-Atlantic trip.

According to calculations, the R-34 is expected to settle down over the Roosevelt field soon after noon. The R-34 did not establish radio communication with Roosevelt field until within 600 miles of the coast as her sending apparatus will not carry beyond that distance.

The navy aviation unit of some 200 men will corral the big ship the moment she nears the field, and make her fast. Seven companies of army aviation ground men will assist in handling the great bag.

The arrival of the R-34 will make the Fourth a memorable day here and army officers and civilians are preparing to handle an enormous crowd. Parking space for thousands of automobiles is being staked off and temporary refreshment stands are springing up on all sides.

British dirigible R-34 was about 400 miles northeast of St. John's at 10 p. m., Greenwich time, according to a message received last night at the admiralty wire station.

BURIED ON HOLIDAY

W. H. Elgin, Former Grocer, Died Suddenly Wednesday Night.

Funeral Yesterday.

Mr. W. H. Elgin died at his home on North Main street Wednesday night aged 70 years. He was taken suddenly ill with a heart attack and died in a few minutes.

He was a native of this county, but had lived in the city for many years. He had engaged in the grocery business and for some years had charge of the feed department of the Forbes Manufacturing Co.

He was a devoted member of the Methodist church and faithful to every vow. He was also a member of the Woodmen of the World Lodge, being one of the charter members of the lodge here and one of its most enthusiastic members.

He is survived by his wife and five brothers, Rev. Virgil Elgin, of Adairville; G. W. Elgin, of Louisville; T. E. Elgin, of Dyerburg, Tenn.; and Frank L. Elgin, of this city. Also by one sister, Mrs. W. B. Kennedy, of Paducah.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and burial was at Riverside cemetery.

KILLED WHEN PLANE'S INITIAL FLIGHT FAILS

Hempstead, N. Y., July 2.—Lieut. Jules Biscayart, an aviator, was burned to death here today when his airplane, a new type of machine in which he was making the initial flight, fell. The gasoline tank exploded. Biscayart, who resided here was recently married.

Is Not Take-All.

Wheat in Whitley County has not been attacked by either take-all or flag-smut, the foreign diseases already noted in news stories. An expert from the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, who has just returned from an inspection of wheat in that county, reports the diseases in the wheat fields as scab, loose smut and stinking smut and not the dangerous take-all or flag-smut.

LOOKING AHEAD TO CELEBRATION

RETURNED SOLDIERS ARE TO BE GIVEN A BIG BLOWOUT OF SOME TIME.

ORATORY STUFF IN DISFAVOR

Boys Would Rather Have "Eats" And a Day of Sports and Excitement.

It has been at last definitely decided that the returned soldiers of Christian county are to be given a fitting celebration, although as yet no definite arrangements have been made as to what kind of a celebration it will be. In fact, there will be two celebrations, one for the white men and one for the colored men. The expenses are to be paid by the Red Cross which will make all arrangements.

The "boys" of our county have been wondering for some time past what kind of an occasion Christian county's celebration would be. It was the consensus of opinion among most of the boys that the people would express their appreciation of the deeds which Christian county's boys did in the war with a great display of oratory and the like, as has been elsewhere and the boys felt disappointed. For the boys, be it known do not want hot air celebrations. They had enough of that while in the army. Let us do something for them that they will enjoy. The thing they want and the thing they will appreciate most would be a barbecue or picnic without any big speeches, but with an athletic tournament for men, a baseball game, a potato race, a relay race and the like with small trophies offered for the winners. That would be something which the ex-soldiers would enjoy. They say "Let the politicians and orators do their worst on the Fourth of July but give us something else on our day." Let's give them what they want.

GOOD HEADWAY BEING MADE

On New Dormitory At Bethel And Faculty To Be Announced Soon.

Work is going ahead rapidly on the new dormitory at Bethel College. The wall are now up to the 1st floor, over the 12-foot basement story.

Garrett are on this committee with the chairman of the board acting with them in place of Dr. T. W. Blakey, who has resigned from the board. The committee has decided to put hardwood floors and stationary washstands in all the bedrooms of the old building, install home more bathrooms and do all needed repair work in plastering, painting and papering.

The laboratory and library equipment will also be given special attention.

Two other additions to the faculty have been made this week. Miss Edna Gunn, of Nashville is to return and Miss Maude Arrington, of Trenton, a Bethel graduate, who has recently secured her degree in Louisiana.

Troubles Of One Family.

Mrs. Ada Cravens, wife of Dick Cravens, is in the Stuart Hospital, as a charity patient. Her husband was arrested and jailed Wednesday on a charge of vagrancy. GLORIOUS 4TH YESTERDAY

FIRST ONE SINCE PEACE MADE NOTABLE BY GENERAL HOLIDAY

NEARLY ALL STORES CLOSED

Fireworks and Oratory Were Not Much in Evidence in the City.

Yesterday was the Fourth of July. Perhaps never before in the history of our country has the "Glorious Fourth" meant so much to the people of America as it does today. Our nation has been plunged into a great and bloody war for the ideals for which the Fourth stands and we have come forth victorious. Our haughty enemies have been humbled and the treaty of peace has been signed. Our boys have come home or are on the way home and celebrations throughout the entire nation, this year were celebrations of joy. Celebrations that showed that we Americans are glad that we were living in this age of acts and yet it was a day of thanks giving that our ideals and our standards of right and honor had emerged from the test unscathed.

The old-time speakings and fireworks were not so much in evidence; the tone of the celebrations were more serious. The real old-fashioned barbecues and picnics, the most enjoyable hayrides and small gatherings were very much in evidence.

In almost every part of the county work ceased and the day was given up to the memory of what the Fourth stands for. Here in town all the stores and even the garages were closed. Those car owners who were unlucky enough to have breakdowns had to do their own repair work as no place in Hopkinsville was open to do the work for them. Taken as a whole it was a very safe and sane Fourth of July.

AT CERULEAN.

Cerulean has been the scene of many social functions since the opening ball last month, but the big celebration of yesterday went all previous efforts one better. There were picnic throughout the adjoining country and the grand Fourth of July ball given last night drew crowds from far and near. As the season progresses Cerulean Springs grows more popular than it ever was before as a summer resort.

Trade Called Off.

Fred Jackson who recently bought Miss Lula Moseley's residence on South Main St. has let Miss Moseley have the lot back at the same price traded for and has bought the M. D. Kelly vacant lot on Seventh street and will build a home as soon as possible.

At Western State Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Littlepage died at the Western State Hospital Thursday of Pulmonary tuberculosis. She was 47 years of age and a native of Webster county. She had been at the institution two and a half years. The body was shipped to Sebree yesterday for interment.

STATEMENT OF THE PREMIER

Lloyd George Discusses Informally In Parliament the Terms of The Treaty.

London, July 4.—William Hohenzollern, the former emperor of Germany, will be brought to England in a British ship and imprisoned in the tower of London, according to the Daily Mail.

The death penalty will not be sought, the newspaper points out, but if he is found guilty, the allies ask his banishment for life to a remote island, following the precedent of Napoleon's exile on St. Helena.

The international trial court had entered to try the former emperor alone, the Daily Mail said, but it is possible the former crown prince, Frederick William, will also be arraigned before it.

The former emperor will soon be placed on trial. Premier Lloyd George made this announcement in the house of commons today, in his report of the peace negotiations.

The German army, the Premier said, was at present inadequate to disturb the peace of the feeblest of the neighbors of Germany.

The premier declared that the tribunal which would try the former emperor would sit in London.

German officers who had committed appalling infamies, the premier added, would also be placed on trial.

BIG CROWD AT PARK

Free Band Concert Wednesday Night Enjoyed By Great Throng Of Music Lovers.

Wednesday night was ideal. The sky was clear and just enough breeze was stirring to make one enjoy a walk in the open rather than endure the heat of the front porch. Accordingly several hundred people were at Virginia Park early in the evening. The band concert had been moved up from Thursday night to allow the band to fill an out-of-town engagement. A new platform over the walk in front of the pavilion had been built during the week and each musician was in plain sight of every one in the crowd. It seemed to bring the music nearer and make everything better than the old arrangement.

Society was out in force and there was a noticeable absence of the noise which heretofore had marred these entertainments. Everybody came to enjoy the music and everybody was rewarded. Many elections of varied degree of "jazziness" were rendered and no matter what your taste in the musical line might have been you had it satisfied. Perhaps the selection which brought the most applause was "Beautiful Ohio" for its dreamy strains seemed to blend with the beauty of the July night.

Even after the last selection had been rendered the throngs still lingered in the park enjoying the evening. Truly Hopkinsville is to be congratulated for having a beauty spot like Virginia Park and a band like Lebkuecher's Band.

Mrs. Marian Carney Carr.

Mrs. Marian Carney Carr, aged 62 years, died at the Western State Hospital Tuesday of biliary cauculi. She had been in the institution for twenty-two years. Interment at Trenton Wednesday.

NEW YORK MOBILIZES EVERY MAN OF ITS FORCE OF 11,000 POLICE

WARNING SENT TO PITTSBURG

Reported That Large Amounts of Explosives Have Been Stolen In Last Few Days.

New York, July 4.—Every man of the New York police force and detective force, more than 11,000 in number, was mobilized last night to remain on continuous duty until Saturday morning as a precaution against another possible attempt by anarchists to inaugurate a reign of terror on Independence day. Special guards were thrown about the city's public buildings and the homes of citizens who, because of their wealth or prominence in efforts to stamp out radicalism, might be targets of the terrorists.

As an additional precaution plans were perfected for the rapid mobilization of the city regiments of the state guard in the event of any widespread disturbance which might prove more than the police could handle.

The initial steps in the elaborate program for the protection of the city were taken early today when squads of uniformed and plain clothes officers were detailed as guards for the city hall, the sub-treasury, the criminal courts building, St. Patrick's cathedral and several other important public buildings and churches.

At the same time guards were sent to some of the famous private residences on Fifth avenue, including those of the former Senator Clark, of Montana, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry C. Frick, Andrew Carnegie and M. Finley J. Shepard. Additional guards were sent tonight to the railroad stations and ferries in an effort to prevent anarchists from outside points coming to the city.

Anarchists Being Watched.

Washington, July 4.—Every law enforcing agency in the country will co-operate tomorrow in preserving order against reported plans of anarchists and other radicals to create a reign of terror by bomb explosions.

Officials of the department of justice have said that they knew of no concerted plot set for Independence day but no chances are being taken. The bureau of investigation has enlisted the police of all large cities in their purpose to put an end to criminal agitation. The plans have not been divulged, but it is known that many suspected persons have been under surveillance and that they will be arrested on the least suspicious move.

Adequate precautions have been taken for the protection of public officials, but the nature of the safeguards necessarily have been kept secret.

ANOTHER BIG ENTERPRISE

New York Warehouse Building To Be Erected on Fred Jackson Lot.

Fred Jackson has sold his lot on the L. & N. railroad, between 13th and 14th streets, to a new stock company to be called the Universal Warehouse company which will be on the lot soon. Morgan C. Boyd is one of the moving spirits in the big new enterprise.

DISLOCATES HIP BY FALL.

Miss Mary Collins was seriously hurt Tuesday night when she fell and dislocated her hip. The accident occurred at the home of her niece, Mrs. Fannie Cheatham on South Virginia street, when she lost her balance while trying to turn on the electric lights, and fell heavily to the floor. Miss Collins is 82 year of age and on account of this it was feared her injuries might be serious, but she is resting well today.

Reported That Large Amounts of Explosives Have Been Stolen In Last Few Days.

New York, July 4.—Every man of the New York police force and detective force, more than 11,000 in number, was mobilized last night to remain on continuous duty until Saturday morning as a precaution against another possible attempt by anarchists to inaugurate a reign of terror on Independence day. Special guards were thrown about the city's public buildings and the homes of citizens who, because of their wealth or prominence in efforts to stamp out radicalism, might be targets of the terrorists.

As an additional precaution plans were perfected for the rapid mobilization of the city regiments of the state guard in the event of any widespread disturbance which might prove more than the police could handle.

The initial steps in the elaborate program for the protection of the city were taken early today when squads of uniformed and plain clothes officers were detailed as guards for the city hall, the sub-treasury, the criminal courts building, St. Patrick's cathedral and several other important public buildings and churches.

At the same time guards were sent to some of the famous private residences on Fifth avenue, including those of the former Senator Clark, of Montana, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry C. Frick, Andrew Carnegie and M. Finley J. Shepard. Additional guards were sent tonight to the railroad stations and ferries in an effort to prevent anarchists from outside points coming to the city.

Anarchists Being Watched. Washington, July 4.—Every law enforcing agency in the country will co-operate tomorrow in preserving order against reported plans of anarchists and other radicals to create a reign of terror by bomb explosions.

Officials of the department of justice have said that they knew of no concerted plot set for Independence day but no chances are being taken. The bureau of investigation has enlisted the police of all large cities in their purpose to put an end to criminal agitation. The plans have not been divulged, but it is known that many suspected persons have been under surveillance and that they will be arrested on the least suspicious move.

Adequate precautions have been taken for the protection of public officials, but the nature of the safeguards necessarily have been kept secret.

DISLOCATES HIP BY FALL.

Miss Mary Collins was seriously hurt Tuesday night when she fell and dislocated her hip. The accident occurred at the home of her niece, Mrs. Fannie Cheatham on South Virginia street, when she lost her balance while trying to turn on the electric lights, and fell heavily to the floor. Miss Collins is 82 year of age and on account of this it was feared her injuries might be serious, but she is resting well today.

It takes Vision to make Big Business

PERHAPS you are a manufacturer making an article of unusual merit, which the people in your locality recognize as good and buy from you with very little solicitation on your part.

If your merchandise are appreciated at home, isn't it reasonable to suppose that they would be appreciated in other parts of the country? The tastes of people in different parts of the country are not radically different, and merit is appreciated as much in one part of the country as in another.

If you could live for several hundred years, perhaps by the end of your life the story of your product would be spread from mouth to mouth, until finally you had distribution wherever possible for you to sell, but unfortunately, time is limited, and you must seek other means of telling people about your product, if you want your business to expand during your life-time. The first requisite of a big business is for the men at the head of it to be able to see a vision of the millions of prospective buyers, and having seen that vision, to go out and tell them about their merchandise in the most direct and most economical manner, which is by advertising.

Your salesmen at best can talk to only a few dealers, and these dealers in turn might talk to a few people if they had time to do so, but you must remember that they have hundreds and sometimes thousands of articles on their shelves, and yours is only one of them. Therefore if you want people to know about your products, you must talk to them direct through advertising, and you will find that merchants everywhere will back you up with proper cooperation.

The function of an advertising agency is to tell you how to proceed in making plans to advertise in the market which you desire to reach, and at the least possible cost to get results. This is the real function of an advertising agency, and their constant experience and study of merchandising and advertising problems of various kinds puts them in position to give sound advice along this line.

Other functions of an advertising agency, which operate after the plans for a campaign have been formed, consist in the selection of mediums, preparation of advertisements, buying of art work, plates, etc., making contracts with the papers, checking insertions to see that they are correctly made, and paying for the advertisements in the various publications. All you have to do is pay one bill to the agency each month.

Remember that advertising agencies act as representatives of the publications, and are paid by the latter in the form of commissions on the advertising which they prepare. The publishers pay these commissions in order to make sure that you will receive the kind of advertising advice and assistance that will make you a successful and continuous advertiser.

There are nine advertising agencies in the South which are members of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. These agencies are listed below, and any one of them will be glad to confer with you, if you are interested in the subject of advertising.

Consult with one of the recognized and accredited Advertising Agencies named below. Allow one of them to submit an outline of the service they are prepared to render. You may be assured that an invitation to call will be appreciated and that no obligation whatsoever will be incurred.

Owensboro, Ky., July 1.—At an early hour this morning Orville Stinnett, a negro, was discovered breaking into a store room of the Green River Distilling Company, where a quantity of whiskey was stored. Night Watchman W. T. Logston, who was on the inside of the building, fired, instantly killing the negro. Two bullets took effect. Logston was arrested tonight on a warrant charging involuntary manslaughter.

Hemp Tree's Many Products.

The hemp tree is one of the most versatile plants in the world. From it comes, besides rope and wrapping paper, the drug hashish, called by its devotees "the joyous," obtained by boiling the leaves and flowers with fresh butter; a valuable vegetable oil, a cake used by the farmers for their stock, and the finer varieties are used for cloth, coarse laces and braids. A great deal of the seed is exported for canary seed.

Possibly Hadn't Been Introduced.

Arthur owned a bulldog that he had been teaching to hunt rats, and whenever he called out the word to him he would run frantically to various places to scratch. A neighboring woman was so amused at the performance that she wanted to show the dog's tricks to her son, but to her repeated call of "rats" the dog only stood and looked at her. "Oh," said Arthur coming up at this point, "he doesn't know your rats."

Hide Picture Wires.

Never, if you can help it, hang pictures so that the wires will show, and do let the pictures hang against the wall as if they were really and truly decoration.

Wild Canaries Not Yellow.

Canaries on their native islands are found in great flocks—striped greenish birds, by no means resembling in color our cage canaries. The yellow canary is a result of selective breeding, and the same may be said, of course, of other cage varieties, such as the hump-backed Belgian canary and the "lizard" canary of curious feather-pattern.

Discipline.
Know you not that our business here is a warfare, and one must watch, and one go out as a spy, and one must fight? You neglect to do the bidding of the commander, and complain when he hath laid somewhat rougher than common upon you, and you mark not what, so far as in you lies, you are making the army to become, so that if all copy you, none will dig a trench, none will cast up a rampart, none will watch, none will run any risk, but each will appear worthless for warfare.—Epictetus.

WE CALL UPON JUDGE CARROLL TO EXPLAIN

(Elizabethtown Mirror, June 26.)

It has been openly charged that one Eli H. Brown, Jr., is financing the campaign of Judge John D. Carroll in his race for the Democratic nomination for governor, and as far as we have been able to learn that charge has never been denied, although Gov. Black has challenged a denial thereof in his public addresses. If there is no denial forthcoming, it or course must be accepted as true.

What then can prompt Eli H. Brown, Jr. to bear the heavy expense incident to a campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor and from whence does he expect to be repaid?

It will be remembered that Eli H. Brown, Jr. received the sum of $7,000 in the settlement of the now celebrated Harkness tax case wherein the State of Kentucky lost hundreds of dollars in a settlement that is now openly charged to be fraudulent, and which Gov. Black has since by suit filed, sought to set aside and recover.

er to the State what it should justly receive.

This is the same Eli H. Brown, Jr., who held an office under the State Insurance Board and which upon investigation by committee from the last General Assembly was found to be absolutely devoid of duties to be performed, although he was relieving the state of the sum of $3,000 per annum for his services.

If we are correctly informed he is the same Eli H. Brown, Jr., who represents the great packing houses of Armour & Co., and Swift & Co., who are interested in obtaining contracts with the State to furnish its penal and charitable institutions with meat and meat products, and we wonder if there could be any connection between these facts and the payment by him of Judge Carroll's campaign expenses? And if not, where does the money come from?

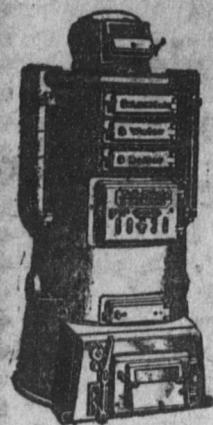

Since high officials are judged to a great degree by their alliances and associates, this matter is one of the gravest concern to the democracy of this state; why is it that Eli H. Brown

Jr., is permitted to pay these campaign expenses and yet have no place in the personnel of Judge Carroll's announced managers? It is true that he is indirectly linked to the management of Judge Carroll's campaign campaign, owing to the fact that he is the law partner of M. M. Logan, Judge Carroll's campaign manager, who is making a strenuous effort to compromise and settle the Bingham Inheritance Tax Case, for a sum much less than is claimed to be justly due the State, but we fail to see wherein this would warrant his payment of Judge Carroll's campaign bills.

It has been said that, "By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them," and if this is a safe guide, the people of Kentucky should look well into the associations which have been mentioned. We await with unabated interest for a statement from Judge Carroll about this matter.

"D." GRUBBS IS CHARGED

Alleged to Have Stolen More Than $11,000 and Claimed Postal Office Was Robbed.

Paducah, Ky., July 2.—Milton D. Grubbs, manager of the Postal Telegraph Company here, was arrested today charge with the embezzlement of $11,518 in funds belonging to the company.

The money, officers allege, was removed from the safe and an effort made to have it appear that the office had been entered from the outside. The robbery was first brought to light over a week ago. Postal office in conjunction with police, and officials have been working here on the last night officers determined on the arrest of Grubbs. Grubbs was placed under $12,000 bond by City Judge Nicholas. He protests his innocence.

Length of Lobsters.

Whatever may be the excellent intent of the bill filed in the Massachusetts legislature reducing the length of lobsters that may be legally taken from 9 to 8 inches, the measure might well be entitled a bill to further the extermination of the lobster. The lobster is rapidly disappearing, partly, at any rate, because young and immature specimens are permitted by law to be caught. The present 9 inches in this state is shorter than the Maine law allows—and that is none too long.—Boston Post.

Origins of Military Titles.

Commodore and commander are forms borrowed and corrupted from the Spanish comandador, a knight, a commander, or the superior of a monastery. The French have the word comandeur, the Italian comandatore. Commandant, however, meaning the officer of a fortified town's garrison, etc., comes from the medieval Latin commandator, a commander, and commandare, to command.

U. S. MUST ACT IN MEXICO

Murder of American Protecting His Wife Causes Stir in Washington.

Washington, July 1.—Reports that John W. Correll, an American citizen, was murdered June 16 at his home in Colonia, Mexico, while attempting to protect his wife, coupled with complaints that several robberies and other outrages have been committed recently, have stirred the State Department to make further demands on the Carranza Government for information concerning measures being taken to protect foreigners from attacks both by bandits and soldiers who are supposed to be under the control of the existing Mexican regime.

Late developments have served to make the situation more acute, especially in view of apparently unauthenticated reports that Carranza has directed his soldiers to forbid drilling of wells by American oil companies, unless they are prepared to forfeit their properties to Carranza and his followers.

There are some who predict here that present day conditions in Mexico cannot be tolerated much longer and that decisive action soon must be taken to restore order.

Reports concerning the death of Mr. Correll were conflicting. Unofficial dispatches received here were that Mr. Correll was killed by Carranza soldiers while his wife and son were forcibly prevented from aiding him.

Correll, it is stated in these dispatches, had passports issued by the American Government and had been given assurances of protection. It was asserted also that Mrs. Correll was attacked by the Mexican.

The State Department, in an announcement issued after the news dispatches had been made public, classified the murderers as "of a rebel force."

Even Beer Must Go.

The victory won by brewery interests in Baltimore when Judge Rose, of the U. S. District Court, in effect upheld the right of brewers to make beer containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol, may be only temporary, for prohibition leaders in congress have taken steps to push a bill providing for enforcement of war-time prohibition and defining what are "intoxicating" beverages. In the meantime Attorney General Palmer has issued a second warning that the dry measures will be enforced and that test cases will be brought in jurisdiction where litigation is not pending. In jurisdictions such as Baltimore, where a decision unfavorable to the Government's contention has been made, the Department of Justice will take no action.

Profitless Activity.

"De saddest thing I knows of," said Uncle Eben, "is a man dat's so busy mindin' a ukulele an' a setter pup dat he ain't got time to go out and put two or three dollars a day in his own pocket."

BOY BLUE

By ELIZABETH GROVESTEIN.

When Jerry Stanton was a very little fellow he had been called "Little Boy Blue" by his fond parents. Now the term as applied to him had a bigger and broader meaning, for the only son of the proud Mr. Stanton was a sailor boy in blue.

Indeed, Jerry was a lad to be proud of, one who would be able to do his bit for Uncle Sam. But he had one grievous fault which threatened to be his downfall, Jerry was conceited, very, very conceited. Why, it did not seem to surprise him in the least when he learned that the sweetest little girl in the whole wide world had fallen in love with him. However, the entire blame should not be placed on Jerry's shoulders. He was doubtless the spoiled pet of an over-indulgent mother.

Now, to be sure, Louise Gray was deeply in love with the handsome Stanton boy, but she knew he thought too much of himself, and it troubled her. Time and again she would pucker up her pretty lips, frown and try to think of some plan to make her lover see himself as others saw him.

One warm and lovely summer evening the sailor had come bounding up the steps of the Gray homestead. He rang the bell, knocked at the door and called "her" name. Useless! No sound reached his ear, and all was darkness within. Slowly he retraced his steps and began to walk around the house. As he reached the side porch he heard voices, and yes, he recognized his sweetheart's ringing laughter. With angry steps and beating heart he drew nearer. His attempt to play eavesdropper was rewarded when these words reached his ears, "Tom, you're just a dear and I love you." These few words, without any doubt, gave Boy Blue the "blues."

Jerry gave one last hopeless glance at the porch above him and then made his way toward the pond. He thought he would jump in, but plans for revenge caused him to turn around sharply and start for home. Just then his foot stumbled over something. Jerry fell to the ground with a bang, a pitiful little "me" was heard, and somewhere out of the darkness came the cry, "Tom, where are you?"

Then the lovers came face to face and both seemed bewildered. Jerry rubbed his head and Louise picked up the abused cat. At last Jerry was humbled. He blurted out something about being a fool, and asked Louise to please forgive him. By the mischievous twinkle in her eyes and the roguish smile on her lips, she told him all was well again.

And now the deserted kitten demanded attention. This time Jerry took him, and as he did so he tauntingly quoted, "Tom, you're a dear and I love you."

MAKES POINT ON EDUCATION

Writer Seems to Think That All is Not Right With Present System Employed.

Here is a healthy boy of twelve. What we most want of him is that he shall develop himself in character and ability to the utmost extent of which he is capable. If there is a precious little spark of originality or germ of leadership anywhere about him, we must want him to discover that and develop it, for there is never enough leadership and originality in the world. We are always wanting inventors and leaders in industry, in politics, in science, in art.

So we take this boy at half past eight in the morning and stick him in a hard seat, right behind a hard desk, and tell him he must not budge if he values his hide. He must not even shuffle his feet or look about; he must not whisper to the boy next him.

We give him certain carefully prescribed books, none of which interest him very much, and tell him it makes no difference if one of them happens to interest him more than another; he must give exactly the same attention to all of them for rigidly prescribed periods.

He is "good" in proportion as he takes the books, just as some well-regulated machine takes whatever is fed into it. He is "good" in proportion as he submits to a cast-iron, mechanical regimen, and represses all impulses that are not in strict conformity with unvarying rules—which, for a healthy boy, means repressing practically all natural impulses. The school is a ponderous, close-webbed machine for compelling absolute uniformity. In the matter of rigidity the Prussian military regimen is by comparison quite lax and roomy.

Is that the best way to treat that boy, when what we want of him most of all is that he shall develop initiative and leadership?—Saturday Evening Post.

Queer Fashions of Other Days.
Writing of the period preceding and following the American Revolutionary war, Watson, in his quaint Annals, has much to say concerning the fashions and apparel of that time. He particularly deplores the fact that the fashions change so rapidly, and, as an instance of this, he writes: "In the year 1817, I bought in the East Indies a second-hand yeast sold by its owner because 'it was out of fashion; I have it yet, and it is nearly as good as new, although it has been in and out of fashion five times respectively since I bought it.'"

SGT. YORK TO PREACH SUNDAY

War's Greatest Hero Will Deliver
Two Sermons.

Nashville, Tenn., July 4.—Nashville is this week to be favored with another visit on the part of Sergt. Alvin York, accredited greatest hero of the world war, and this time added interest will attend his coming because of the fact that the fighting elder of the Church of Christ will preach two sermons here next Sunday.

Sunday morning Sergt. York will deliver a sermon in the Belmont Methodist church and in the evening will deliver another sermon in the Pentecostal church.

Needless to say, these two events will on that day overshadow any other in religious circles of the city, and in the churches in which Sergt. York will preached will be taxed to the limit.

At The Teachers' Institute.

Prof. Keith is having a wonderful success at the teachers' institute at the High School this week.

Everybody is enthusiastic and a large attendance of the teachers of the county speaks well of the interest taken by the educators of this region.

Prof. A. C. Burton of the Western State Normal was here Wednesday and Thursday and gave many interesting and helpful talks. Prof. L. E. Foster is pushing the work and everybody is pulling for better schools in Christian county.

His Preference.

Alvine had always longed for a dog. One day the nurse announced that if he would pray for it, God might send him a brother or a sister very soon. That night the nurse overheard him saying his prayers. He ended with: "Dear God, I would like a brother or a sister, but if it's just the same to you, I'd lots rather have a dog."

All Sailors Superstitious.

All sailors are superstitious, but none is so completely under this influence as the old deep-sea fisherman. He puts the deepest faith in "signs" and omens of all kinds. Nothing would induce a skipper of the old school to sail on a Friday. One intrepid unbeliever who dared to leave the docks at Grimsby, England, on a Good Friday was hooted through the lock gates by the scandalized populace. In spite of thus challenging the fates, however, he returned safely with ship and crew.

CYNTHIANA LOSS CLOSE TO $6,000

Bank Robbers Get $2,000 Cash and
Between $3,000 and $4,000 in Liberty Bonds.

Cynthiana, Ind., July 3.—The search was continued yesterday by the local police for the long and short robbers who on Tuesday held up three officials of the Cynthiana Banking company at Cythiana, backed them into a vault and locked them in. After making a careful inventory of the deposits John McReynolds, president, announced that the cash stolen amounted to $2,008.95.

In addition between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of Liberty bonds were taken. The exact amount has not been determined. The bonds were placed in trust and the amount stolen will not be learned until the depositors make known their losses, said Mr. McReynolds.

Chief of Detectives Ira Wiltshire went to the bank yesterday and talked to various eye witnesses in efforts to obtain more accurate descriptions of the two robbers. The two men detained at Mt. Carmel were released after proving their identity.

FRENCH GIVE U. S. NEGRO RARE HONOR FOR HEROISM

Boston, July 2.—The act of Clarence Van Allen, negro corporal of Co. L. 372 infantry regiment in putting out of action single-handed a German machine gun, killing four of its crew and capturing three others, was recognized today when he was decorated with the medaille militaire, the highest honor for heroism that France confers on an enlisted man.

Officers of the northeastern department, who turned out in a body to do honor to the man who was formerly a waiter at a restaurant here, said they believed he was the first American soldier to receive the decoration.

CHANGE IN WIND CHECKS FIRE

Blaze Is Under Control Due to Veer in Breeze and Backfiring.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 2.—With the exception of two districts the forest fires which swept portions of Chippewa, Luce and Mackinac counties yesterday, menacing a number of small villages were reported under control tonight.

From Brimly and Raco, fire wardens report the flames are still being driven before a lively breeze but, by backfiring last night when the wind veered, they say the towns were probably saved from destruction. The greatest property loss in that section was caused by the burning of a large number of lumber camps.

Railroads traversing the district are holding trains in readiness at nearly every town to remove residents if the fires again assume threatening proportions.

FRANK SIMONDS' TRIBUTE TO THE DOUGHBOY

I wish I could give some really accurate portrait of the American Doughboy in Europe, but it is beyond my power. Certainly no nation was ever more wonderfully represented abroad than our own. A lonely figure, too, despite his unflinching humor, his jibes and his horseplay, the American soldier was. He was a stranger in a very strange land, and there is something infinitely pathetic in the lone graves straggling about the scattered villages all the way from the Argonne to the Meuse. A little perplexed as to the reasons for his exile, seized with an intense longing at all times to be home—once the job was done and done right—but in some strange way acutely conscious that he represented America in Europe and therefore had certain obligations conferred upon him, the first of which was to demonstrate the indubitable superiority of America to Europe in all that really counted.

And when the last of him was gone from Europe, save for the thousands who sleep in graves French peasants are already tenderly caring for, I am sure the legend of the American Doughboy will survive and flourish in the land in which whenever it rained—as it usually did—he chuckled over "Sunny France." If he was ever understood fully, he was appreciated. He made friends. He broke hearts and sometimes heads afterwards when his victories were resented. His generosity was boundless, his youth in an old country—whose youth had largely been sacrificed before he came—was magnificent. He was never conquered, benevolently assimilated, culturally captured—he clamored for gum and consumed candy by the ton, but he did every job that was asked of him. He did more than anyone could or did expect of him. He frequently performed miracles because his superiors could not perform the most rudimentary tasks—being new to the game. He would have gone to Berlin if he had not been stopped by the armistice. But in the shadow of Rheims Cathedral he continued to talk about the "Goddess of Liberty."

Moreover, and this is final, neither the German, nor any other race who saw him in action will ever invite him to come to Europe again as the Kaiser and his advisers did two brief years ago. The next time a President of the United States happens to say "too proud to fight" Europe will recognize that he is indulging in a figure of speech, not in a statement of fact. But the American soldier did more than teach Europe the greatness of America—he fought. Every American who saw him in Europe learned something new and unforgettable about his own country. The Doughboy's faith in his country was as simple, complete, unqualified as that of a child, but for that faith and in that faith he walked and lived and died, as only strong men can. And of this, the greatest of all his revelations, he was at all times unconscious—From "My Five Months in France" by Frank H. Simonds, in the American Review of Reviews for July, 1919

TREATY SIGNING BRINGS RUSH OF YANKS ASKING TO WED GERMAN GIRLS

Coblentz, Tuesday, July 4.—The judge advocate's department at army headquarters here was kept busy today with inquiries from various parts of the occupied area as to whether marriage between American soldiers and German girls would be allowed, now that the peace treaty had been signed. More than 140 inquiries were made by various individuals, including several officers. These came from the division headquarters of five of the divisions of the third army and from various other units, a number of men inquiring personally at headquarters.

A ruling on the question will be made in a few days. The order against fraternizing with Germans still is in force nominally at least and will continue until Germany ratifies the treaty.

100 DEATHS IN ITALIAN QUAKE

Thousands Homeless in Davastated Florence District; Rushing Relief Work.

Florence, July 4.—The earthquake in this district caused 100 deaths, made several thousand homeless and destroyed 200 homes, six churches and several public buildings and school houses, according to the latest compilation.

The relief work proceeded with such rapidity today and tonight that virtually all of those made homeless were given food and shelter. To take the place of the railroad from Florence toward Borgo San Lorenzo and Vicchio a thousand military wagons and motor trucks have been pressed into service.

AGED WOMAN SUFFRAGIST DEAD

Philadelphia, July 2.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw honorary president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, died at her home in Moylin, Pa., near here, at 7 o'clock this evening. She was 71 years old.

Dr. Shaw was chairman of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense and recently was awarded the distinguished service medal for her work during the war. She was taken ill in Springfield, Ill., about a month ago, while on a lecture tour with former President Taft and President Lowell, of Harvard University, in the interest of the League of Nations. Pneumonia developed and for two weeks was confined to her room in a Springfield hospital. She returned to her home about the middle of June and apparently had entirely recovered. Last Saturday she drove to Philadelphia in her automobile and upon her return she was feeling "fine." She was taken suddenly ill again with a recurrence of the disease and grew rapidly worse until the end.

COFFEE PRICE DROPS WHEN DRINKERS BALK

Rio Janiero, Tuesday, July 1.—Demonstrations by the populace of Rio Janiero today defeated an effort by the proprietors of coffee houses to double the price of the national drink, coffee. Patrons entered the cafes, took the coffee and then refused to pay more than the old price of 100 reis (normally five cents) for a small cup. After some coffee houses had closed on account of the demonstrations the proprietors announced the return of the old price.

WIDOW GETS $17,500 FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Louis, Ky., July 1.—A jury in Lawrence Circuit Court awarded Mrs. Bell Chapman a verdict for damages of $17,500 against the C. & O. Railroad Company on account of the death of her husband, who was killed several months ago, when he was struck by a train.

Destructive Civil War.

Civil war in England lasted from 1642 to 1660—eighteen years—being contemporaneous part of the time with the Thirty Years war, which divided all Germany into two opposing camps. It found the empire with a population of 16,000,000, and left it with less than 5,000,000.

Cyclones and Tornadoes. The so-called "cyclones" of the West are "tornadoes," which are whirling storms of great violence, but contracted in area. Tornadoes have been known whose greatest width did not exceed a few rods, and those which exceed several miles in width are very unusual. The ordinary storm, where the wind attains a velocity of 40 to 60 miles an hour, has nothing in common with either a cyclone or tornado. It is a straight rush of air and does not whirl at all.

Learning by Experience.

Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other, and scarce in that; for it is true, we may give advice, but we cannot give conduct. However, they that will not be counseled cannot be helped, and if you will not hear reason, she will surely rap your knuckles.—Franklin

The Service Guest

By IZOLA FORRESTER

"And I would like to suggest right now, while we are assembled here to honor our brave boys just returned from the front," Mrs. Hampton paused to give full emphasis to her next words, "that we each one take one or more home with us to dinner."

Katherine heard, but made no sign of acquiescence. She had been on the Citizens' league committee of welcome and had worked for two weeks on the program for entertainment, but this was bringing the question of patriotism straight into the privacy of her own home and she objected.

It happened to be a particularly cozy home where she had lived since the death of her father, Doctor Fenway, with Maria Tupper as housekeeper. Nobody in North Waldo ever spoke of Maria as a servant, although her life had been devoted to service in the doctor's family.

The house stood well back from the sidewalk on upper Main street; a large, old-fashioned house, with a cupola on top and a wide piazza surrounding three sides of its lower floor. The garden was withered and brown now, with patches of snow in the deep hollows around flower beds and shrubbery, but in the spring and summer it was a glory to the eye of the passerby.

And to old-time residents Katherine seemed a part of the garden, somehow; so many seasons had found her there, working here and there over the annuals and perennials, and training the myrtle at the base of the old rock pedestal that held the sundial.

Very few suitors had ever passed up the winding path. There was something frosty in the air at the Fenways; something that nipped romance in the bud. So Rodney Allan expressed it, the first and only time he ever asked Katherine to marry him.

"She thinks there's a Fenway with wings right beside St. Peter. I'd like to see the pride taken out of her, all right."

But Katherine went serenely on through her twenties without apparently regretting her position as the prize maiden lady of the little Maine town. She had plenty of money, an assured position, and all the old doctor left her. Life had run in serene channels until the war flame reached America. Rodney had organized the first volunteer company that went down the coast. She heard he was a captain, and his sisters smiled at her in church in a sort of triumphant way for having missed such a chance.

He was in the hall tonight, decorated and handsome, with one of the Halsey girls beside him. Evelyn, the prettiest one. Katherine heard someone say they were engaged, and suddenly she realized that all of the girls and friends of her own girlhood had some special soldier to welcome and cling to. Her straight, dark brows drew together slightly, and she drew her fur cloak closer around her. It was chilly in the back of the hall. She heard a window close two seats behind her, and glanced back to see who had noticed her discomfort.

He was a stranger to her, a tall, deeply tanned western type of man, with service bars on his sleeve. Later, as the meeting broke up, she noticed he walked with a limp, and appeared to know nobody there. Their eyes met again, hers with a quick questioning of her duty to him, as the other members of the committee speedily gathered up their guest units among the boys and went home.

"I'll send your silk flags home tomorrow," Katherine. Mrs. Hampton called as she went out, but under the words Katherine knew there was the threat. All she had done was to furnish silk flags and money for the decorations. She turned with a sudden impulse to the stranger and invited him home to dinner with her. Maria's eyes opened widely when she was told to set an extra place for a strange man, but, after the first half hour, Katherine began to find her self-consciousness leaving her, as he sat at her father's place and told of his experiences at the front. He was just out of the hospital and had come north with the Maine units because he had friends among them.

"There's no one expecting me specially," he added. "My people are all gone, excepting a sister out in Seattle."

And then, how it happened she never knew, but Katherine saw him grow tense and white, and Maria helped her lift him to the couch in the doctor's old room next the study.

Shel shock and overexertion, young Doctor Morton's verdict was. He must rest and be cheered up before he tried to go on farther.

In the days that followed the full lesson of war came home to Katherine as it had never before done. Clad in white, she took her place as his nurse, and fought to bring him back to the normal. He was Bob Lorrimer, she found out, nothing more, but at the end of six weeks, when he was able to have breakfast in the little sun parlor off the dining room, she felt as if he had always been a part of her home.

"I suppose it didn't mean anything, to you, Miss Fenway, that night," he was telling her; "you just did your duty by a strange soldier, but to me it was handing me back my faith in human nature. I'd said all the time since we landed, nobody cared excepting those who really belonged to you, don't you know, and I hadn't a soul. I don't see how you'll ever get rid of me now."

She was pouring his coffee, and met his eyes for one swift second as their hands touched in passing cups, but the undercurrent of appeal in his words sent the color to her face delicately. Maria was singing gospel hymns out in the buttry and Cheer Up, the canary overhead, was trying wildly to keep up with her. The sunlight poured through the south windows on rows of flowering plants and the pink and white china.

"It will be very lonely without you," she said, softly. "You've made me feel as if I had been given the opportunity to realize a little of what service meant in having you here."

"And nothing more," he urged. "Would you just as soon have taken in one of the others instead of me? I've liked to think that right from the first time we looked at each other you meant to ask me."

His hands had closed over hers and Katherine felt a relaxing of all the old prejudices as she looked at him laughing.

"Oh, dear Bob, I've grown accustomed to you here, and I don't know whether I want you to go away or not. It's just like taking the camel in your tent, isn't it? Marie said the first day she saw your pipe on the mantel, you'd stay right along and now I'd miss it terribly."

Bob took out his record card which the doctor had filled out daily. He pointed to one line on it, "Quartered indefinitely," it said.

"Can I stay?" he asked. Maria's singing came nearer along the hall, and Katherine merely laid her finger on her lips and nodded assent.

Triumphs of Youth.

History is full of what youth can do. David was a mere stripling with rosy cheeks when he slew the great giant. Alexander was scarcely more than a boy when he crossed the Hellespont and fought his way to almost universal empire. Newton was only twenty-three when he made discoveries that have revolutionized science. Athanasius was a young man when he became the leading advocate of the Doctrine of the Divinity of Christ at the great council of Nice. Luther was only twenty-four when he led in the great attacks of the German reformation. His years were no barrier to vision, for he saw the need of educational freedom which has resulted in the modern public school. So the list might be enlarged adding an increasing emphasis on the powers of youth.

Early Formal Gardening.

In the sixteenth century, formal gardening was carried to a very high pitch. In England, many fine new country houses were being built on a scale unknown before, and gardens, fit to act as their setting, were being laid out round them. The importance of the place which both domestic architecture and gardening, or rather the designing and laying out of gardens, occupied in men's thoughts is shown by the fact that such a man as Lord Bacon wrote an essay on both subjects. Nor was his essay by any means an isolated instance. A century or so later, John Evelyn devoted much attention to and wrote a great deal on the same subject, and there are a host of lesser writers on gardens, such as Gervase Markham and some of his friends.

History of Skating.

The art of skating was invented by the Dutch, and was popular in Holland centuries before it spread to England, and France. The first blade-skates used in England were introduced from Holland about 1660, and are first mentioned in a diary bearing this date, January 20, 1661. Prior to the use of skates by the Dutch, a sort of skate made of the bones of animals was used by the northern peoples, dating back to prehistoric times. Several of these primitive bone-skates have been found in the marshy fields near London, and are preserved in the British museum. The period when skating, as it is known now, originated in Holland, is not known to historians.

MEXICO TO ASK FOR U. S. AID

Wants No American Troops Sent Across Border and Prevention Of Arms Smuggling.

Mexico City, July 2.—Ignacio Bonillas, Mexican ambassador to the United States, on his return to the United States will ask for an agreement from the white house that no American troops be sent across the border and also that the United States instituted measures that will absolutely prevent the smuggling of arms and ammunition to rebels in Northern Mexico, it was learned officially today.

Decision to make these requests was reached at a conference Senor Bonillas had with the foreign affairs department before his departure from the United States.

The ambassador has been authorized to state the Mexican government has ample sufficient means to prevent harm to American border towns in any possible fighting without aid from the United States.

It was also learned from unofficial, but reliable sources, the Gen. Candido Aguilar who is on a journey to the United States and Europe as President Carranza's confidential ambassador, carries no authority to make agreements binding on the Mexican government, but is making the trip simply to secure information which would aid the Mexican government in fixing its foreign policy.

Four hundred thousand dollars will be applied to the improvement of schools for colored children.

Mr. DuPont already has given a million and a half to the betterment of Delaware College at Newark.

91 MILLION PENNIES TURNED OUT IN JUNE

Washington, July 2.—United States mints broke a new record for monthly output in June by turning out 98,161,000 pieces of money. Director Ray T. Baker announced today. Of the total pieces 91,364,000 were pennies, which was 13,000,000 greater than the previous record made in December, 1917. The remainder consisted of 6,427,000 nickels and 370,000 dimes.

For the fiscal year the mints coined $19,610,617 in 438,024,458 pieces of which 347,066,300 were one cent pieces. Other coinage included 28,795,000 dimes, 18,801,444 quarters, 14,104,600 half dollars and 100,050 Illinois centennial half dollars.

Cull The Slacker.

The slacker in a pen of poultry can be picked out. A simple method of culling the farm flock will be demonstrated in over half the counties in Kentucky this summer and autumn by the poultry specialists of the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture. The exact dates are July 14th to November 5th. During this time four men will be visiting farm flocks so that a neighborhood gathering may understand how to pick out the slacker hen. About three days will be spent in each county and six demonstrations will be held each day.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Is Sure To Be Ratified And Is Not Perfect But a Step Forward.

(George Creel in Leslie's Weekly.)

There is no danger in prophecy when one deals with certainties. The League of Nations, as conceived, prepared and endorsed by the Paris conference, will be ratified by the Senate surely and overwhelmingly. When the vote is taken it is doubtful if the opposition will muster more than a corporal's guard of provincial statesmen.

The people of the United States are not the fools that politicians imagine. "Ghost dancing," such as has been indulged in by the Lodges, the Borahs, the Shermans and the Reeds, may interest and divert, but the average American is not yet ready to accept this Sioux excitement as argument. From first to last, the attack on the League of Nations has been lacking in intelligence even as it has lacked in honesty and fairness.

No one, not even its most ardent advocates, claims that the League Covenant is perfect or that it approaches perfection. What can be claimed for it, however, is this: It is a start and a start in the right direction. Disentangled from units legalistic verbiage, this is what the League of Nations proposes:

First—Limitation of armaments.
Second—Complete process of conference, inquiry, arbitration and settlement.
Third—Abolition of secret treaties.

Fourth—Guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity.

Thirty-two nations, by signing the covenant, agreed to these four fundamentals, a proceeding in itself that marks the longest for a step ever made by the peoples of the world. Thirty-two nations formally admitted the stupidity of war, solemnly pledging themselves to end competition in armies and navies, sacredly agreeing to open treaties and binding themselves to submit the causes of war to investigation and adjustment before drawing the sword!

What is the machinery devised to carry these proposals into effect? The Assembly of the Nations is made up of three representatives of each Power, each nation, however, having only one vote. Above the assembly is a council of nine in which America, England, France and Japan are permanently represented, the assembly electing the other four members.

Aside from matters of routine procedure, decisive action by the council requires unanimous vote. This provision is the answer to those critics who appeal to base prejudices by declaring that "the black races" will control. Neither America nor any other nation can be overridden by a majority.

BUILD AIRSHIPS TO LIFT 280 TONS

British War Office Officials Believe Machine Is Practical.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES SEEN

Immense Craft Could Cross Atlantic and Return and Then Repeat the Journey Without Pause, Weather Permitting.

London.—A rigid airship—Zeppelin type—of 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity, or about three times as large as any yet constructed, is a practical proposition, according to war office officials. Such an airship would possess a total lifting power of about 280 tons. The structural weight, that is, the gas bags, framework, gondolas, engines, operating machinery, etc., would be not more than 80 tons, leaving 200 tons as disposable lift. Only 50 tons would be required to make room for the crew, petrol ballast, etc., leaving 150 tons commercial load which could be carried.

Such an airship could cross the Atlantic and return and then repeat the journey without a pause, if weather were favorable.

British Government Interested.
Because the British empire is so far-flung, the government is encouraging development of aerial communication for both passengers and light parcels as a vital necessity. Wireless stations belting the world also will be erected quickly as possible.

Before this is printed a Handley-Page machine will have flown from England to India in a test trip. This is but preliminary to permanent air traffic to Egypt, India, South Africa and Australia. Canada likewise will be linked up with the mother country.

The rigid airships which Britain now possesses can cross the Atlantic, given favorable weather. But it is the airplane that is being developed for overland routes.

Godfrey Isaacs, brother of Lord Reading, Britain's ambassador to America, is head of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company. Isaacs is simply waiting for peace, which will remove certain restrictions, to expand British wireless stations.

Stations in China.
Two stations will be erected in distant parts of China. Receiving apparatus will be installed on all passenger-carrying airplanes, so that messages may be sent back and forth while the flight is in progress. Hence a business passenger who may tire of the scenery or have bright ideas about his business may get in touch with his head office boy or assistant manager, as the case may be. Thus, as it is feasible to wireless ships of the sea, so it will be possible to wireless ships of the air.

The two new wireless stations in China will be installed with the help of airplanes. Instead of requiring several months to send machinery to Cashmere and the Chinese side of Siberia, locations of stations by wagon, for there are no railroads, the machinery will be taken in Handley-Page airplanes. Thus, in such ways will the distant parts of the world be linked up with modern times.

GETS LIMIT FINE OF $500

"Frankness Should Not Go Unrewarded," Is Comment of Court in Soaking Suspect.

Kansas City, Mo.—"Frankness should not go unrewarded," said Judge Edward Fleming of the South municipal court as he fined Claude Simpson $500, the limit. Simpson was arrested while standing in front of a saloon by a patrolman who saw part of a "Jimmy" protruding from Simpson's pocket.

Simpson, who is unemployed, admitted he intended to break into the saloon. After learning his fine Simpson said he was glad he was arrested before he entered the saloon, as he then would have faced a penitentiary sentence.

"Judge," he said, "it's just as well to look on the bright side of things." "Some Pollyanna," remarked the judge.

Pennsylvania Woman Has Refused $250 for Coin Lost by Martyr President.

New Castle, Pa.—Mrs. J. L. Underwood of this city, has a copper cent bearing date 1818 which once was owned by Abraham Lincoln and was lost by him. She has refused $250 for it. Mrs. Underwood found the coin while digging in a field near Lincoln City, Ind. She was informed by Joseph Gentry, an old resident, that the penny was one of four or five that Lincoln carried on a string. Lincoln had told Gentry of losing one of the coins. There is a hole in the penny through which the string was run.

TRIP TO THE ISLE OF PINES

Native Homestead in Isle of Pines.

By EDITH C. CAMERON.

WHEN a doctor pronounced the edict, "four months of rest and change of climate, with plenty of fresh air and sunshine," the question arose, where to? The time was December, with all the cold and disagreeableness of a northern climate.

Someone suggested "Why not go to the Isle of Pines? There you could rest and have all the sunshine and fresh air that you need."

So when I learned that it is one of the most beautiful and interesting spots to be found in the world, and situated almost at our very door, less than two hundred miles south of Key West and not as far distant from New York as the Mississippi, I decided to visit it.

I found there were many routes to choose from, but I selected the quickest one, most commonly used, by way of Jacksonville, Fla., Miami, and the delightful sea-rail route to Key West. From there a sea trip of six hours brings one to Havana, Cuba, and another by rail or auto, 35 miles, to Batabano, now the most important seaport on the south side of Cuba. The trains run to the dock, where one can take a comfortable boat making the trip to the Isle of Pines in a few hours.

On reaching Jucaro, a port of entry, we have our choice of a number of automobiles for a ride over a government turnpike road, called here a calzada, to Santa Fe, a distance of five miles. We cannot help being surprised at the fine road, almost equaling any boulevard found in our northern cities. Our obliging chauffeur tells us that there are about one hundred miles of these calzada roads built and maintained by the government.

All Comforts in Santa Fe.

In the picturesque little town of Santa Fe, about five hundred feet above sea level, is a hotel meeting every requirement of the most exacting traveler. There are other less expensive establishments. Here are small American churches of almost every denomination, a bank, schools, clubs for both men and women, a chamber of commerce, a large Masonic temple and other institutions found in average American communities.

After resting and bathing in the Santa Rita thermal springs—the privilege of guests of our hotel—one feels like a new being. All the tiredness of the long trip vanishes.

The wealthy Spanish military and government classes came here from Havana to spend the summer for generations, as the Isle of Pines is much cooler than Cuba. The baths are marvelous for curing rheumatism, nervous troubles and obesity. The water comes from iron and magnesia springs.

The history of the isle is replete with romance. How many of us know, I wonder, that Christopher Columbus, in his second trip to the new world, was lost in the keys, or small islands, surrounding the Isle of Pines for a number of days, finally landing on the isle, upon which, after inspection and replenishing his supply of water, he bestowed the name of La Evangelista (the Evangel), later reaching the harbor of Batabano, Cuba.

Pineapples and Pines.

It is questionable whether the Isle of Pines gets its name from the wonderful pineapples, weighing from seven to fifteen pounds, growing so profusely there, or to the pine trees, the odor of which, when the wind is blowing in the right direction, can be noticed several miles from shore.

In early days the Isle of Pines, like many other islands of the Caribbean was a rendezvous for pirates, and the south part of the island is often regarded as the "Treasure Island" of Stevenson's tale.

As recently as some thirty years ago a Spaniard who had lived a long time on the Isle of Pines, as poor as the proverbial church mouse, suddenly blossomed out as a gentleman of great affluence. He moved with his family to Havana, the "Paris of the West Indies," and to him was traced, as the source of circulation, a large amount of old Spanish doubloons, "pieces of eight," and other gold coins of the pirate days. It was generally believed he had discovered the cache of the hidden treasures of some pirate crew who were unable to return and claim their ill-gotten wealth. Even now there is more or less desultory search made from time to time by some of the natives for pirate treasures supposed to be buried in the caves and along the shores of the island.

In 1776 the Spanish crown made a grant of the entire isle to a retired Spanish naval officer, who at his death left seven sons, among whom the Isle of Pines was divided. From the original grant down to the Spanish-American war the isle was the home of Spanish aristocrats who had large interests in Cuba. When Cuba and Porto Rico were lost to Spain, the leading inhabitants of the Isle of Pines, being pure Spanish, regarding the Cubans as inferiors, were very desirous, as the lesser of two evils, that the sovereignty of the isle pass to the United States. There was inserted in the treaty of Paris, negotiated with Spain, a clause which President McKinley interpreted as ceding the Isle of Pines to the United States.

Sent Many Men to the War.

The Isle of Pines is extremely patriotic, and has done its full share toward winning the war. While the American population is less than five thousand, and the percentage of the men who are over the draft age has been above normal, owing to the fact that many were originally attracted by its climatic and health advantages, nevertheless it boasts a service flag of over two hundred stars. Many bright young men have enlisted in various branches of the service. The women of the isle in their Red Cross work have raised thousands of dollars. In fact, more actual money to date has been raised here than has been secured and contributed by the American women in all Cuba.

While all the wealthy Spaniards originally inhabiting the isle have sold their properties to the Americans and returned to Spain or Cuba, the working natives, "pineros," as they are termed, remain to the number of probably twenty-five hundred or three thousand. These pineros are pure Spanish. They are industrious, working faithfully ten or twelve hours a day for the small wage of $1 to $1.50 per day and boarding themselves. As workers they are regarded as superior to the Mexican peons, Cubans or Jamaican negroes. They are a quiet, inoffensive people, fond of the Americans, and cases of theft or bodily assault are rare. They are of a domestic temperament, marrying early and rearing large families.

There are diversified amusements for tourists. Automobileing over good roads to all parts of the isle, deep-sea fishing, tennis, golf and horseback riding are especial favorites, as well as sea bathing in the warm salt waters of the Caribbean. As to the climate, I will not attempt a description, as I found it perfect.

Expect Find of Interest.

The Spokane museum has leased a 160-acre Coplan ranch, near that city, and soon will begin "prospecting" for the complete skeleton of one of the largest mastodons ever unearthed. The farm, which is a low, boggy place, has been the source of several mastodon skeletons unearthed in the past years. There are several more skeletons bogged in the place. It is believed, and the one the Spokane museum hopes to recover complete will stand 14 feet high with tusks extending about ten feet out from the jaws. This will equal in size the largest mastodon ever unearthed, which was found on this same farm in 1878, and is now on exhibition at the Academy of Science in Chicago.

Very Platonic.

Peter Prosser didn't believe in marriage. He kept on saying so. Platonic friendship was good enough for him, he affirmed.

But one day Peter Prosser got married. His friends wondered, and one of them asked a question. "Well," said Peter indignantly, in reply, "I still believe in platonic friendship, of course, but I had to do something. Another fellow came along and got interested in the girl."

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night... I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui...

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again... I decided I would try Cardui... By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial.

FIRST PRISONER CONVEYED BY ARMY AIRPLANE

Alleged Deserter Is Taken to Camp In Machine.

Stamford, Conn., July 1.—The first prisoner to be conveyed by airplane, departed from Stamford at noon today en route to Mineola, where he was to be given in custody of Maj. Miller, commanding officer at Hazelhurst field.

Private Charles Lowden, Stamford, a member of the 3rd Aero Squadron, was the prisoner and though he is to be held on a technical charge of desertion, he did not appear to be greatly disturbed by his predicament. He waived his hands gaily at the crowd that assembled to see him off as the biplane, piloted by Lieut. Victor Bieau, took the air and hummed off across Long Island Sound.

Private Marshall, of the local recruiting station, was in charge of the prisoner. He was armed with a revolver, but he "allowed" that he did not think Lowden would attempt to escape.

Lowden is a mere boy, enlisted here June 4, and sailed over Long Island in the same plane to Mineola. A week later he came home on pass. He forgot to return and eventually he was taken in custody here on the technical charge of desertion. He has been in Private Marshall's custody for several days awaiting favorable opportunity to fly back to Mineola.

Gift Brought Punishment.

A young woman employed in the office of a Kobe shipping house received from her millionaire employer a sum of money as a present on New Year's day. The girl took her fat wad of notes home. She was promptly thrashed by her mother for stealing them and dragged to the office to apologize for the theft. Explanations were made, but when they got home she was admonished once more for not stating her case more clearly.—Japan Chronicle.

Biblical Thrift.

The Scriptures give us many lessons in thrift. Ezekiel warned the children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to be thrifty. He said: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel iv: 9. The Bible shows that Ezekiel ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only "from time to time."—Thrift Magazine.

U. S. TROOPS ARE LEAVING RHINELAND

FOURTH AND FIFTH DIVISIONS ENTRAIN FOR BREST AND OTHER WILL FOLLOW.

ONE REGIMENT WILL REMAIN

With Auxiliary Troops of Occupation

Will Number Only About Five Thousand.

Paris, July 4.—The American army of occupation technically ceased to exist when the removal of the units still in the Rhineland began.

It is expected that within a comparatively short time there will remain on the Rhine only one regiment with certain auxiliary troops, totalling approximately 5,000 men.

The fourth and fifth divisions, entraining for Brest today, will be followed eventually by the second, third and first divisions in the order named.

The exact time of departure of these latter divisions depends on the manner in which Germany carries out the military terms of the treaty.

"Our flag is there, our word is there and our honor is there," Gen. Pershing told the correspondents today in speaking of the American army in Europe.

"Until there is indisputable evidence that the job has been completed," he added, "Americans will stand by to do their part."

Gen. Pershing said all troops will be returned to the United States through France, most of them sailing from Brest. His grand headquarters at Chaumont will be closed within a fortnight and he will establish his headquarters here, remaining until the end of August or the first part of September. He said rapid progress is being made in disposing of the army's effects.

Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, it was announced at American military headquarters today, will succeed Lieut. General Hunter Liggett in command of the forces on the Rhine, the new title of the army of occupation based on Coblenz.

Major Gen. Allen formerly commanded the 90th division composed of national army troops from Texas and Oklahoma. He was born in Kentucky and entered West Point in 1878 from that state.

Hogs Near $22.

Within the memory of middle-aged persons hogs fattened in Kentucky sold at $3 per hundred. July 1, 1919 the market was $21.75 in Chicago, and nobody can say the crest of the rise has been reached. Here is a more than sevenfold increase in the cost of what formerly was the poor man's accompaniment of hominy all over the South, and none so poor as to have to do without the combination of simple necessities. Corn is very near seven times as high as it was when it was fed to three-cent hogs. The relationship between the prices of hogs and corn necessarily remains about the same it has always been.

The very high prices of the period immediately after the Civil War came at a time when wages were not, speaking generally, as high in proportion to prices as they are today. Many wage-earners are getting six or seven times as much as the same service commanded a generation ago. Farm hands are paid only about twice as much where they work for monthly wages, but the right of the regularly employed farm laborer to harvest wages in harvest work is admitted, and between June and the late autumn, when the last corn is shucked and the hemp is broken in Kentucky, farm hands earn as much in a day as they could have earned in a week thirty years ago.—Courier Journal.

Most Valuable Garnets.

The oriental garnets are the most valuable and beautiful. They come principally from Pegu; and the town of Srihan having formerly been the chief mart for them, they are hence by corruption known among lapidaries by the appellation of Srihan-garnets. They appear to be the carbuncle of the ancients; their color is crimson, verging into a very red violet; they are transparent, and have a conchoidal fracture.
